Fifty Lehigh Employees Quit the Lehigh People Receiving Applica- developments. Communipaw Yards.

This Completely Paralyzes the United States Hotel this morning: Freight Traffic.

Fifty of the fifty-three switchmen employed in the Lehigh freight yards at Communipaw went on strike to-day. This completely paralyzes the freight traffic of the road.

The strike was the result of the meeting held last night in Masonic Hall, in the strike was decided to call.

week or two before going forward is accepted.

The passenger train from Easton, which should have arrived at 10.40, got into Jersey City at 11.45. As it ran past the round-house, a crowd of Central lengineers and firemen hooted at the men at the throttle, and cries of "scab" were heard above the din.

The engineers and firemen in their cabs also hooted at the Lehigh Valley engineer as he came into the station.

There was a good deal of curiosity manifested among the strikers to see whether the order issued last night by President Wilbur would be obeyed to-day. It was to the effect that unless all the strikers reported for duty at noon to-day they would be paid off and their names taken from the rolls.

At noon not one of the strikers in the Communipace yards reported for work, although President Wilbur's notice was posted all around the yard.

There was some improvement in the Lehigh Valley passenger train service this morning. The 7.12 local left Jersey City for the first time since the strike was declared. The 9.10 local also left on time, and the 9.41 Buffalo express pulled out three minutes late behind engine 372. The engineer and fireman were both non-union mea.

The car reached the "Py" junction at Branchport firm. This made it virtually New Jersey Central freight.

The Central's employees did not understand the circumstances connected with the shipment, and were guided only by the fact that the hay was in a Lehigh Valley car, and must necessarily be a Lebigh shipment. Accordingly they refused to touch the car.

A little more activity was noticed along the coal docks this forence, and two engines were shoving coal cars back and forth through the yards.

A big man was stationed at the door leading to the billiard-room. In answer to a question if the men were wanted for the Lehigh road, the sentry said they were.

The billiard-room was filled with men waiting to see the man in charge—a tail, well-dirested man, who had an air of authority. The crowd was composed mostly of young and middle-aged men of respectable appearance.

As each applicant was called up to see the "boss" he was asked if he had his railroad papers. Those who had not were told to return when they got them—that nothing could be done without the papers.

The 'boss' respectfully, but firmly declined to say anything to reporters. The question whether the men were for the Lehigh road, who he was and whom he represented brought out the access of the Brotherhood in the papers.
